THE EVENING CRITIC, ublished Daily (Sundays Excepted) Byening Critic Publishing Company 511 NINTH STREET NORTHWEST, WASHINGTON, D. C.

TERMS:

EVENING CRITIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, WARRINGTON, D. C. Entered at the Post Office in Washington as second class matter.

Wednesday, Dec. 21, 1881.

WE ARE PAINED TO NOTE the departure of the Hon, Isaiah P. Christiancy from our midst. Divorce suits often require a man to go home to mend his financial fences.

IT HAS BEEN discovered that Speaker Keifer owns several thousand acres of land out in Nebraska, and the Western papers infer that he will incline his right car to the improvement of the Missouri River.

THE LATE GEN. ANSETT, of Atlanta, left about $750,000 which he had accumulated by the honest industry of stock speculation in a remarkably short time. It wor ried him to know what to do with his money. He ought to have moved to some Western State and ran for the Senate.

THE WELCOME NEWS of the safety of the majority of the Jeannette's crew is saddened by the list of a few yet missing. Among these none will excite greater interest in this community than the name of John Danenhower, a Washington boy, whose record in the navy and whose position in society are alike enviable. We still cherish the hope that young Danenhower and his companions in boat No. 2 may yet pull through. The dispatches hold out strong hopes of the ultimate safety of all. Surely, if pluck, enterprise and endurance of the highest order can combat the vicissitudes of the Arctic wastes, John Danenhower's friends may expect to see him again; for no braver boy ever wore the naval uniform of

THE HOLIDAY SEASON makes the streets a privileged thoroughfare at all hours for the lady shoppers, and then, more than at any other time of the year, are they entitled to every sort of freedom and protec-tion. The Chicago Herald, in this connec-tion, complains that every day unattended ladies, of the highest respectability, "are ogled upon the horse-cars, followed on the streets and insulted in all public places by the infamous puppies who imagine themselves irresistible and are devoted to what in their own vocabulary, is called 'mashing.' It has long been a serious question how to deal with this vermin. They are particularly careful not to disclose themselves whon gentlemen are at hand. Un-protected ladies are their prey; and here tofore ladies, burning with mortification and terror inspired by their insulting conduct, have felt incapable of taking any steps toward bringing the scoundrels to justice." We have the same sort of reptiles here, but the gentlemen predominate. If a lady complains of annoyance, we take the offender's head off behind the ears.

SAMRANDALL yesterday gave a sample of his " leadership of the minority" that we have heard so much about. The subject matter was a resolution by Mr. Kasson looking simply to the re-establishment of the Select Committee on the Inter-oceanic luring the last Congress at the instance of Floyd King, who became chairman of it. The work of this committee being of paramount importance and far from complete, there was no reason to suppose that objection would be offered from any quarter. There may have been in the last Congress a slight conflict of jurisdiction between this select committee and the regular Committee on Foreign Relations, but that was soon adjusted, leaving the usefulness of the seleccommittee well defined.

Why Samrandall should have judged is necessary to antagonize Kasson's resolution does not clearly appear. If there ever was any substantial reason why such a committee should not exist, it must have been in force at the time when he, as Speaker, had power to defeat King's resolution by simply tipping the wink to his faithful henchmen on the floor. But he did nothing of the kind. On the contrary he gave King every encouragement in his power to pass the resolution, and, after its passage, he signified his sense of the importance of the committee by appointing some of the best men in the House to its membership. Now, as we understand it, Samue objects to the perpetuation of the committee, not because the work for which it was organized is complete, but because its existence is based upon a project that threatens to take fifty millions of dollars out of the Treasury. This view is not the true one, as King showed in a dozen words of

There is then but one solution of Samuel's remarkable behavior: He has struck his proposed attitude as a watch-dog of the Treasury and struck it early. The fact, as King demoustrated, that the Treasury does not require the services of a watch-dog in this particular case, is quite immaterial to Samuel. In order to pose successfully or with ectat as a watch-dog, it is necessary that there should be evil persons in the vicinity meditating burglary. If none happen to be about, it then becomes necessary to set up effigies. Samuel was, therefore, at work yesterday setting up his offigies. The exploit is valuable as an indication

Samuel will undoubtedly "lead the mi-nority." And unless all the signs fail, it will be not merely a minority of the House, but also of the minority itself. But for all that, Samuel is bound to lead—and he will probably continue to lead until he shall have reduced his minority to the unanimons compass of himself, when both leader and led will vindicate Scripture by falling in the ditch.

"THROUGH ONE ADMINISTRATION,"

A NOVEL OF

Social, Political and Department Life in Washington,

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett AUTHOR OF "THAT LASS O'LOWRIE'S," "A FAIR BARBARIAN," "HA WORTH'S," &c.

This story was begun in the November number of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE Scribner's Mouthly), and will run through the coming year. It will be of special in-terest to all who are familiar with life at

QUITE A NUMBER of people in this country will pass dull holidays. They had expected the body of Guiteau for a Christmas gift.

FOURTEEN PRINTERS and about thirty proof-readers are said to have committed suicide since the name of Frelinghuysen was sent in.

The foreign policy of Mr. Frelinghuysen was decided upon last night at the residence of Mr. Blaine. It had a strong aroma of terrapin and champagne.

The January Number, ready on the 25d, will contain the third in-stalment of "Through One Administra-tion," and, among it miscellaneous contents, a most interesting paper by Col. Rockwell, cuttiled entitled "From Mentor to Elberon," with a reproduction of the photograph of President Garfield, sent by Mrs. Garfield to the Queen.

The February (Mid-winter) number will have the new cover, designed by Vedder, and will include the text (somewhat con-densed) of Mrs. Burnett's play, "Esmeralda," now so popular in New York.
